

Monocot

Dicot

Teaching Transparency Activity (continued)

1. What is a cotyledon?

2. How do the number of flower parts and cotyledons differ in monocots and dicots?

3. What is the function of vascular tissue in plants?

4. How do vascular bundles of monocots and dicots differ?

5. What is the name given to vascular plants in which the seed is enclosed inside a fruit?

6. Cereal grains such as corn, rice, oats, and wheat are examples of what type of flowering plants?

7. Trees such as oaks and maples, vegetables such as lettuce and beans, and fruits such as watermelons and oranges are examples of what type of flowering plants?
